Election Day-1970-And Eyes Focus on Local Races

KINGSTON Fair to partly cloudy skies greeted prospective voters on Election Day 1970 and apparently persuaded many to make an early appearance at the polls as voter turnout throughout Ulster County and New York State was relatively heavy at most election districts by mid-afternoon. The turnout of voters, however, hasn't altered the "predictions" of Ulster County's three political chairmen, who are sticking to their claims that each of the major parties will fare well when the final results are tabulated. But the three county chairmen, Democrat Aaron E. Klein, Conservative Harry Hoffman and Republican Albert Spada generally concur that the GOP will again come out on top. Most political prognosticators are predicting a Republican victory in the gubernatorial race, but the three out the state tonight, with Ulster's three chairmen anticipating, in varying degrees, a Rockefeller victory in the race for the Governor's seat over Arthur Goldberg and Conservative Paul Adams. They agree, too, that incumbent Attorney General Lefkowitz appears to be a safe bet for another term as Attorney General. Incumbent comptroller Arthur Levitt, however, should dampen GOP victory celebrations with an easy win, say the county trio. The U. S. Senatorial race, pitting Conservative James Buckley against Democrat Richard Ottinger and a battered Republican Charles Goodell, has Hoffman predicting success for his man, with his two counterparts "warning 'don't be too sure.'" Locally, the three party chairmen agree that incumbent Hamilton Fish Jr. is favored over Democrat John Greaney. Hoffman, who is also vying for Fish's seat, says he'll pick up a substantial number of votes.

"Too close to pick" is the general prediction for the Jay Rolison-David Lenefsky state Senate fight, while local political experts see incumbent H. Clark Bell over Democrat George Barthel in the Assembly race and Francis J. Vogt over Democrat Nirenberg in the bid for District Attorney.

Another race the county leaders says will go down to the wire is the John Larkin-Timothy Fogarty run for Supreme Court Justice. Republicans are expected to cop the local race and coroner races with incumbent Fred H. DuBois and Arthur C. Chipp beating Joseph F. Saccoman and Charles "Mike" Johnson respectively.

Nation to the Polls: Nixon Prestige Eyed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Voters in the 50 states made their ballot box choices today in an election testing whether they are worried more about freedom from fear or freedom from want.

This election day in the middle of the term to which President Nixon was elected in 1968 came after a bitter campaign in which leaders of each party said their rivals lied.

The President's influence will be tested following his unusual election campaign to swing the nation's voters to the Republican columns.

About 57 million people were expected to vote to elect all 435 representatives, 35 of the 100 senators, 35 of the 50 governors and thousands of state and local officials.

Although the Democrats were jittery, pre-election surveys indicated they would retain and possibly increase their majority in the House, where the GOP needs a net gain of 29 seats to win control. The Democrats also were expected to gain possibly five governorships.

The Democrats had more cause for worry about the big prize at stake in today's balloting — control of the Senate, which the Republicans could win with a net gain of seven seats. But the GOP needed a sweep of the close races.

In today's contest for control of the Senate, the chief Republican targets are seats now held by Democrats in Connecticut, Florida, Indiana, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas and Utah. In all of those states except New Jersey, the GOP has candidates who have been elected and re-elected to the House.

In New York State, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was favored to be re-elected to a historic fourth term today, but most of the attention in New York State focused on the tight three-way Senate contest that could result in the election of Conservative James L. Buckley.

Goldberg, a heavy favorite to defeat the nation's senior governor when he won the Democratic primary in June, conducted a lackluster campaign that was no competition for Rockefeller's multi-million dollar effort.

Buckley, wealthy businessman and brother to the conservative columnist and television moderator William F. Buckley, led pre-election polls in the race for U. S. Senate, opening the possibility he will be the first independent elected since Robert M. LaFollette Jr. of Wisconsin in 1940. But the pro-Buckley polls could consolidate the Liberal vote behind either Republican-Liberal party contender, Sen. Charles E. Goodell, or Democratic Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, a millionaire plywood heir.

Rockefeller, a tireless campaigner at 62, refused to predict victory as he ended his seven-month campaign in Tarrytown at a rally staged by neighbors at his rambling estate overlooking the Hudson River. If reelected, Rockefeller will set a modern record. Only the state's first governor, George Clinton, who was in office 22 years, will have served longer.

In both the Senate and governorship races, the state of the economy and the conservative tide that many politicians feel is running in New York have been the main issues.

Goldberg has accused Rockefeller of moving to the right to pick up conservative votes. The governor has refused to directly criticize Buckley, although he has endorsed Goodell from the start.

Buckley, who pulled 1.1 million votes in the 1968 Senate race won by Republican Jacob K. Javits, held a 5 point lead in the final poll by the nation's largest circulation newspaper, the New York Daily News. He had only 38 per cent of the vote however, with the remainder split between Ottinger and

President and Muskie Could Be Preview

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Democratic Sen. Edmund S. Muskie spoke to the nation on the eve of today's congressional elections in back-to-back television appearances that provided a possible preview of the 1972 presidential campaign.

Muskie used the time purchased on all three networks by some leading Democrats, to charge Nixon with leading a "law and order" campaign marked by slander, lies, "name-calling and deception of almost unprecedented volume."

In so appearing, Muskie, who is a going away favorite to win re-election in Maine over Republican Neil Bishop today, underlined his own position as the leading contender for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Muskie spoke immediately after a 15-minute excerpt, paid for by the Republican National Committee, of Nixon's speech last Saturday in Phoenix, Ariz., in which he responded to the violence-marked confrontation he had with antiwar demonstrators in San Jose, Calif., Thursday night.

Nixon called on "the great silent majority of Americans of all ages, of every political persuasion, to stand up and be counted against the appeasement of the rock throwers and the obscenity shouters in America."

Muskie, speaking from Cape Elizabeth, Maine, said the Republican campaign has been marked by efforts "to turn our common distress to partisan advantage—not by offering better solutions—but with empty threat and malicious slander."

Muskie's appearance recalled the time when Nixon spoke on nationwide television four years ago as the Republican spokesman after an attack by President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Just as that speech provided a boost for Nixon's 1968 presidential candidacy, Muskie's enabled him to appear to the nation as his party's chief national spokesman almost two years before it picks its 1972 presidential candidate.

Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said that, if the party had the money to buy the time—about $150,000—it would have not featured just one of the party's 1972 hopefuls. But he praised Muskie for "a highly effective job of countering the last-minute Republican blitz."

The senator's appearance was sponsored by a newly created Committee for National Unity, headed by former diplomat and New York Gov. Averell Harriman, and also including West Virginia Secretary of State John D. Rockefeller IV, Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., and labor leaders I.W. Abel of the United Steel Workers and Leonard Woodcock of the United Auto Workers.

The poor quality of the black and white film of Nixon's speech supplied to the networks by the Republican National Committee compared unfavorably with the high quality color Muskie tape, and stirred a controversy of its own as thousands of viewers pined stations charging they were "sabotaging" the President and calling the broadcast "Communist inspired."

Ellenville Acts on Warning

Amends Sewerage Code

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

ELLENVILLE In order to counteract a serious sewerage treatment problem here and in direct response to a stern warning by the Ulster County Board of Health, the Ellenville Village Board has taken action to toughen the village's sewerage codes.

At its regular meeting Monday night, the board unanimously approved an amendment to a village local law establishing limits on the amounts of toxic materials which can be processed by its sewage treatment plant.

The Board of Health issued its warning to the village when they discovered that water pollution was reaching dangerous levels because certain toxic materials from industrial waste were having a detrimental effect on the plant.

In a letter sent to Ellenville Manager, Lawrence Eyres, the board of health directed the village to modify its existing sewerage ordinance "as soon as possible" further warning village officials that "it is expected that the village will strongly enforce the provisions of this ordinance after it is adopted."

The amendment adopted controls the amount and types of toxic chemicals or metals that can be eliminated into the village sewer. It was pointed out that certain chemicals or metals retard the digestion of sludge in the sewerage treatment plant and interferes with the biological process necessary in the plant's operation.

Village officials have recognized this problem for a number of years and have identified the source but have until the Monday night meeting attempted to resolve it through accommodation rather than punitive measures.

Because the problem has not been alleviated and because a failure to respond to the Board of Health's warning could mean the forfeiture of state financial assistance, the board took prompt and direct action.

"We feel we've been been very fair and reasonable in the past," Ellenville Mayor Robert Dowling said. "However, the age of talking has passed."

Village officials were hopeful that in response to their action Monday night, the management of the Burnished Metal Company, would establish the necessary procedures to pre-treat toxic materials before emitting them into the sewerage system.

The Burnished firm, a small metal plating business which employs about a dozen individuals, has, according to village officials made some attempts to alleviate the problem. However, these attempts have not been successful.

Village Board members did not discount the possibility of closing the plant down if the situation was not corrected at some time in the near future.

In related business the Village Board initiated action to have the chemical digestors in the sewerage treatment plant cleaned. The efficiency of the digestors has been impaired by the current levels of pollution. Here too, the village may lose state aid unless the situation is corrected.

The board voted to advertise for bids on the project, which Manager Eyres predicts will cost approximately $6,000. In other action at the Monday night meeting, the Village Board adopted a code of ethics by unanimous vote. The code, which is recommended by the state, codifies existing rules regarding conduct for officers and employees of the Village of Ellenville.

Red Hook ACTION Cites Changes

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK Panel members of the Red Hook Jaycees fifth ACTION meeting Monday night on "Methods of Affecting Change" differed widely on their methods, but all agreed that much change is necessary.

Everette Hodge, president of the Ulster County NAACP, and Mrs. Robert Schultz, member of the Greater Poughkeepsie League of Women Voters, said that they preferred to effect change "through the system."

Jeffrey Raphaelson, past president of the Bard College Student Senate and a senior American affairs major, said that the "system is the problem," and that another economic system must replace capitalism if necessary changes are to be made.

Hodge cited the abolition of slavery, desegregated schools and discrimination in public transportation as examples of the change which have resulted within the system.

"Black people have been less violent than any other faction in America," he said, although he professed he didn't know why.

Mrs. Schultz said that violence is almost an American way of life, and added, "There is no way of changing laws without breaking them."

She said she still preferred to work through the ballot box, although admitting to several personal involvements in peaceful demonstrations and picketing.

She said she had picketed a factory in 1965 in Massachusetts which was to have begun making mace and napalm, and said that Sunday blue laws prohibiting selling merchandise on Sundays in Massachusetts were only repealed after they were flagrantly broken.

A major point of difference in economic responsibilities developed between Hodge and Raphaelson. Hodge said he "disagrees with the late Walter Reuther's theory that workers should share in the profits of GM or Ford."

Raphaelson advocated an economic socialism, and a political democracy because the system "no longer serves the interest of the majority."

He said that capitalism worked until this century to a greater benefit for the many. Mrs. Schultz disagreed with that but that it now preserves a meaningless electoral system and breeds racism.

And he added, "How can we be surprised at violence in this country (like bombings) when but that the media should all-institutional violence has the ways be free."

The sixth and final ACTION Raphealson said that he had forum next Monday will be on found something on which he the subject of drug education, "agreed with Agnew," (vice president) that the news media Dr. Vincent Beltrani, represent-are controlled by the system tatives of law enforcement agencies and a former drug addict.

Mayor Hand to Be Liaison

RED HOOK

Mayor Ellroy Hand will serve as a Village of Red Hook liaison to the Public Information Committee of the county's new solid waste study.

Dutchess County has entered into a contract with the State Environmental Conservation Agency and the Buffalo

William R. Trautman to enter into a one-year study for disposal of solid wastes throughout the county, according to a letter from County Executive David C. Schoentag.

A master plan for the transfer and disposal of wastes through 1990 is the hopeful result. The Public Information Committee is being formed with representation from towns, villages, and cities of the county to keep the public aware of progress. The first meeting is scheduled for mid-November.

The Village Clerk reported at Monday night's Village Board meeting that Halloween problems were practically nonexistent this year. "There was no extensive damage," said Francis Rabbett, while citing the throwing of a lot of shaving cream and toilet paper as well as one enterprising soul was tossing away 60 dozen eggs from a car window when apprehended.

It was announced that a bid by GT Chrysler-Plymouth for a new village patrol car had been accepted, and that a low General cleanup days will be bid for fuel oil from Agway was held Nov. 16 and 18.

Rabbett said that Mountain View Coach Lines has received permission from the Public Service Commission to begin its Hudson to Fishkill route, through Red Hook, but didn't know when service would commence.

UPI Staffer Dies In Taconic Crash

MOUNT PLEASANT, N.Y. (UPI) — Veteran UPI newsman and Assistant Sports Editor Steve Smilanich was killed early today in a two-car collision on the Taconic State Parkway near Mount Pleasant, police said.

Smilanich, 42, of 1017 Lester Rd., Yorktown Heights, N.Y., was killed about 12:40 a.m. today when his car collided with that driven by Richard E. Kwasnik, 30, of Croton Ave., Peekskill, N.Y. Kwasnik was not injured, according to state police in the Westchester County barracks.

Kwasnik has been charged with driving while intoxicated, police said, was released on $20 bail early today.

Police said Kwasnik's car apparently crossed the dividing line on the Parkway one mile north of Hawthorne Circle, Mt. Pleasant, and sideswiped Smilanich's car.

Both men were alone at the time of the accident.

A reporter and former head of UPI's Salt Lake City bureau,

Smilanich had covered many of the major sporting events in the nation in recent years. On the sports desk in New York he usually handled the weekly college football analysis and roundups used by newspapers across the country, plus his weekly "college prophet" report carried by UPI radiowire for broadcast.

Weatherman Operation — 6 Held

NEW YORK (UPI)—Six persons, including one from Syracuse, have been arrested on charges of conspiracy to commit murder and arson and conspiracy to make bombs.

The arrests were made following raids on two apartments in the Bronx and one in Manhattan which yielded bomb-making material, draft card forgery equipment and maps of major buildings in New York and Chicago, according to Bronx District Attorney Burton B. Roberts.

Roberts said the three apartments had been under surveillance since mid-July and evidence, including court-sanctioned wiretaps, suggests "this is a Weatherman operation."

The arrests began Sunday evening when two policemen, answering a routine call of a man with a gun in an apartment house, knocked on the apartment of Donald Cavellini, 27. The door was opened and slammed shut but police saw a box of .22 bullets inside, Roberts said.

The police then returned to the apartment by sneaking in a rear window. They found 19 manuals on explosives—most of them issued by the British and

U. S. armies — architectural plans for 50 public and private buildings in the city, firecrackers "which can be used to detonate a bomb," and other materials," Roberts said.

Arrested with Cavellini in the apartment were his brother, William, of Somerville, Mass., and Jefferson Bernard, 19, of Syracuse.

Later arrested were Mrs. Beth Katz, 27, of Manhattan, Timothy Doyle, 28, of Bronx, and Doyle's mother, Mrs. Mary Doyle, 54.

At Mrs. Katz's apartment, detectives found "a complete tool shop," including ball bearings, drills, fuses and instructional manuals for making bombs, the district attorney said.

The Kremlin Pooh-Poohs Hard-Line on Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union says a hard-line approach taken by one of its diplomats about the future of Berlin has been misunderstood.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has attempted, in separate meetings with U.S., British and West German officials, to explain that his ambassador to East Germany is not a hard-liner. But Gromyko has not spelled out how the ambassador was misunderstood.

The Soviet diplomat, Pjotr A. Abrasimov, will have the opportunity to elaborate on the proposal when he meets in Berlin Wednesday with U.S., British and French ambassadors.

Abrasimov took the other Big Four powers by surprise at an Oct. 9 meeting. He proposed West Berlin be divorced politically from West Germany, and that the Soviet Union be given virtual veto power over the future of the divided city, while denying similar rights to Western powers in East Berlin.

Since that time, Gromyko has met with President Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the German foreign minister, Walter Scheel.

Douglas-Home is understood to have made an effort to smoke out Gromyko when the latter visited London last week. The Russian, however, declined to go beyond stressing the "Community of interest" of all four great powers and of West Germany to come to terms on Berlin and, as far as it is known here, this is essentially what he told Scheel during a six-hour conference in Frankfurt Oct. 30.

Gromyko's talks in the United States—his meetings with Rogers in New York and with President Nixon at the White House—produced nothing to indicate in what form and to what extent the Soviet Union is willing to revise its hard-line position. Gromyko's visits here, in Britain and in Germany obviously were aimed at repairing the damage Abrasimov caused with his unyielding position.

Accordingly, U.S. officials are extremely reserved or the eve of the ninth ambassadorial meeting and stress that despite Gromyko's extensive travel to improve the climate, a meaningful evidence of a readiness to negotiate must come from Abrasimov at the talks on Wednesday.

The officials also declined to speculate on the possible relationship between the Big Four talks and the forthcoming new round of West German-East German negotiations. The latter were proposed by the East Germans and should take place on the state secretary level sometime later this month.

San Jose 'Riot'—Opinions Differ

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — The police chief of San Jose says last Thursday's attack on President Nixon's limousine was something less than the "riot" which Nixon and other Republicans have claimed.

California labor leaders went a step further Monday, charging that the President himself provoked the incident for political purposes. The assertion drew a "no comment" from the Western White House.

"The so-called riot has been exaggerated," said Police Chief Ray Blackmore, whose men guarded the auditorium parking lot where demonstrators chanted obscenities and threw an undetermined number of eggs and other missiles at the presidential limousine.

"I did not have any concern that the demonstration would get physical," Blackmore told a group of San Jose State College students. "The 'barrage' on the President was verbal, not physical."

The chief said policemen who gathered debris in the parking lot after the incident only picked up "one bottle and a few rocks."

The police account contrasted sharply with that given by Republican Sen. George Murphy, who, with Gov. Ronald Reagan, accompanied the President during the Thursday night incident.

"This was so militant," Murphy said, "that I believe if that mob had been able to get hold of the President or the governor or myself they would have torn us to pieces."

4-Hour Sit-in at Prison Ends With No Incidents

AUBURN, N.Y. (AP) — A four hour sit-in by prisoners in the exercise yard of the state's maximum security prison here ended without incident Monday.

Nearly 1,700 inmates at the Auburn Correctional Facility refused to return to their jobs or cells after a mid-day exercise period when one inmate wrestled a loudspeaker from a guard sergeant.

Find $1 Million Stolen Goods, Heroin in Raid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police said they found more than $1 million worth of stolen property and heroin Monday when they raided the home of Mrs. Dollree Mapp, the appellant in a 1961 landmark Supreme Court decision barring state courts from admitting evidence seized without a search warrant.

The police entered Mrs. Mapp's Cape Cod house in the St. Albans section of Queens with a warrant signed by Criminal Court Judge Daniel S. Weiss.

Detectives said the house contained about 50,000 envelopes of heroin with a street value of $150,000 and stolen merchandise including art objects, antiques, television sets, radios, furs jewelry and silver.

Mrs. Mapp, 42, was alleged to have been trading the heroin for stolen goods picked up by shoplifters. She moved here from Cleveland two years ago.

Police said the home was equipped with two burglar alarms, heavy steel fire doors on all entrances and bars on the windows. She had been under surveillance since last Thursday and, at the time of her arrest, was free on $5,000 bail awaiting trial on charges of possessing narcotics, detectives said.

Correction department officials said it was not known what the inmate yelled through the speaker, but most of the prisoners gathered in one corner of the yard and remained there as guards watched from walls and rooftops.

A spokesman said black prisoners addressed the others with a series of speeches on Black Solidarity Day during the four hour demonstration while others played guitars and other musical instruments.

Authorities said about 120 officers were held over from morning shifts until the demonstration ended at about 5 p.m. The prisoners returned to their cells when an order was given to line up for the regular evening count.

One guard said that several prisoners asked to remain in their cells immediately after breakfast, apparently knowing what was planned.

Rochester Bus Drivers Asked to Return to Work

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Union leaders asked striking bus drivers and mechanics to return to work today and remain on the job pending the outcome of a court challenge on the legality of the two-day walkout.

Meanwhile, James F. Reading, resident manager of the city bus line's operator, the Regional Transit System, said at least partial service would resume at noon if the 510 employees returned to work.

He added that it usually takes about 48 hours to restore full service after buses have been idled by a strike.

The break in the dispute came Monday night after officials of Local 282 of the Amalgamated Transit Union conferred for several hours.

The walkout began early Sunday morning after the employees' old contract expired with no agreement reached on a new one.

The drivers earned $3.52 an hour under the old pact and reportedly are pressing for a $2-an-hour raise.

The transit system, which is owned by the Rochester-Genesee Regional Transit Authority, a public body, has offered 72 cents an hour more over two years.

Union officials contended the employees have been locked out of their jobs because snow fences were erected around the bus line's garage.

The court suit, filed Sunday with a State Supreme Court justice by management officials, contends the walkout was illegal because the drivers and mechanics are public employees and thus forbidden to strike under the state Taylor Law.

A show-cause order against the union is returnable Wednesday.

About 90,000 persons who ride the buses daily had to resort to private cars or walking Monday and traffic was reported heavy. Numerous car pools were formed.

The state Public Employment Relations Board stepped into the dispute Monday by appointing a mediator, but no negotiations were held.

Education, YES— Revolution — NO!

THIS TIME IT'S KINGSTON HIGH!

Jim Buckley believes our colleges and universities must be citadels of learning and reason — not launching pads for revolution. Today too many colleges have become sanctuaries for campus toughs who terrorize faculty and other students. All across this State we have seen our institutions disrupted by bands of radicals, SDS Weathermen, Panthers and their allies, using storm-troop tactics to trample on the rights of the student majority . . . encouraged all too often by faculty agitators and by politicians and administrators who cave into their demands. The militants are now bringing their tactics of violence into our high schools.

In the United States Senate Jim Buckley will speak for parents, taxpayers and the great majority of students who want education and not riots.

Isn't it about time WE had a Senator?

New Dean of Education Named at Paltz

DR. MARIO FANTINI

NEW PALTZ — Dr. John J. Neumaier, president, State University College at New Paltz, announced today the appointment of Dr. Mario Fantini to the post of dean of the Division of Education.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. Neumaier said, "I am most encouraged that this college has been able to attract an educator of Dr. Fantini's stature. His nationally known achievements in the field of urban education are a very valuable background for the kind of leadership that is so needed at the present time. Most of our students come from urban centers themselves and will undoubtedly return to them, or others similar to them, when they complete this phase of their education. We expect Dean Fantini will bring new points of view on how the university can open new opportunities for educational service to people in urban America where 70 per cent of the population will soon reside."

Dr. Fantini, a graduate of Harvard, most recently an official of the Ford foundation, has contributed significantly to school reform; parent and student participation; professional development and relevant curriculum.

As a program officer of the Ford foundation, Dr. Fantini achieved national recognition for the development of new approaches to education in an urban setting. His books and articles deal primarily with school reform; parent and student participation; professional development and relevant curriculum.

Asked why he came to State University at New Paltz, Dean Fantini said: "The more I deal with the problems and prospects of American education, the more I realize that our state institutions of higher learning colleges in order to increase their capacity to provide outstanding programs for those in the field of education. Our State institutions are increasingly being asked to provide quality education for large numbers of students. Consequently, the challenges and opportunities are with the state record effective practices with disadvantaged elementary children. He has also served as executive secretary of Mayor Lindsay's "Advisory Panel on Decentralization" in New York City, and was staff director of the "Bundy Report" recommending a community school system for New York City.

Flexible Draft Deferments

The draft-lottery system that took effect at the start of 1970 contained the option for those who are eligible for deferment to choose the year in which they might benefit by abandoning their deferment and thus be altogether free of the draft. The rule was confusing. Now, Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr has issued instructions for dropping deferments at times when it will be most advantageous.

A man with a student, occupational, fatherhood or hardship deferment can request 1-A status at will. For instance, the lottery number 195 probably will be the highest called this year. Anyone who holds a higher number received in the 1969 lottery can now ask for A-1 status and be assured that he will not be called this year or thereafter. Others with those high numbers picked last July had better hold on to their deferments. They could use their top number in 1971 or later when it would free them to abandon their deferments.

Tarr made this ruling both to remove doubts from the minds of the young men who qualify and to gain an accurate picture of the nation's manpower situation. Giving up the deferments voluntarily eliminates those freed of the draft and leaves the list made up of those who are still liable to the draft for future manpower needs.

Economist's Nobel Prize

"I'd like to think that it's a pat on the back for the 'New Economics' which I represent generally, as well as for my own efforts," Prof. Paul A. Samuelson said of the Nobel prize for his work in economics, which the Swedish Academy of Sciences awarded him. Prof. Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has played a major role in shaping modern-day economic thinking.

The economic community in this country hailed the award with enthusiasm. It is understood that the academy gave particular weight to two landmark efforts, Samuelson's "Foundations of Economic Analysis," published in 1947, and his collected scientific papers, covering 130 subjects and nearly one million words, published in 1965. His popular "Economics" text, used by hundreds of thousands of college undergraduates, made him a household word in the academic community and a millionaire as well.

Ironically, "The New Economics" helped guide the Kennedy and Johnson administrations and is not in style in the Nixon camp. It requires the government to assume a responsibility for adjusting the up and downs in the private economy, something that President Nixon has been loathe to do. It obliges the government to take responsibility for managing fiscal as well as monetary policy. Fiscal policy is the adjustment of taxes and expenditures to regulate the pace of the economy.

As advisor of governments, a teacher and a scientist, Samuelson has been active in all three fields possible for an economist.

Sharing Consumer Data

The federal government is far and away the largest buyer of consumer goods, what with a huge military establishment to support, besides such civilian activities as school lunches, old soldiers' homes, veterans' hospitals and the like. In the course of these multiple undertakings, the government tests numerous products. The information it collects is to be shared with the public, under an executive order just signed by President Nixon.

However, consumers can expect information on a very limited number of brand name products for the simple reason that only one-tenth of one per cent of government purchases are on a brand-name basis, according to Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer affairs advisors. The rest are products ordered to government specifications.

At present, consumers can find government preferences with regard to hearing aids, tree marking paint and surgical detergent. Also, what consumers should look for in buying auto tires, as tested by the Bureau of Standards. This will not tell which is the best tire to buy, but it will tell what to look for, and by reading between the lines, you can make up your own mind which is the best tire.

Data on consumer products will be available at 27 information centers around the country. Eventually, this pool of information should help save conscientious buyers a great deal of money.

The national moratorium of college classes to protest the indictments of Kent State University students in the May disorders was a flop. Few classes were cut at Kent itself and very few elsewhere. The time for student protest could be coming to an end.

The purchase of a quantity of rag paper of the kind used for making money led to the discovery of a cache of $1 million worth of $20 bills. The laboratory is the handy tool of the FBI. The counterfeiters always leave a clue that leads to their arrest.

"Go Away, Boy, You Bother Me!"

David Lawrence Says Mood of America Today One of Worry, Concern

WASHINGTON—It's always difficult to learn from the multiplicity of results in an off-year congressional election just what were the underlying currents that prompted the citizens to vote as they did. But there is no question about the fact that the mood of America today is one of worry and genuine concern about a variety of problems that government somehow is expected to solve but hasn't.

The American people are unhappy. They are worried about the future. Life is full of fear and unpleasant occurrences. The streets are unsafe. Bombings are taking place in cities and towns. Disorders are commonplace. Drug abuse is a national problem. Robberies are numerous, and the nation has never been so plagued by crimes of violence. Under the American system, law and order is primarily a local responsibility. But now it has become necessary for the joint efforts of federal, state and local governments to be deployed so that criminals will be detected and punished.

Entirely apart from the rise in crime, the economic situation happens to have a grim outlook. Unemployment is increasing. Inflationary pressures are still strong, and the purchasing power of the dollar is lower than it has ever been.

There are other troubles, such as air and water pollution. Difficulties have arisen in connection with education and the integration of school systems. In fact, never have so many problems been forced upon government for solution at the same time.

The election of a few more governors from one party or the other doesn't really change the fundamental situation in many states. People dissatisfied with the leadership are expressing themselves at the polls. But by and large, when the citizen looks over the election results, he will be wondering if there will really be reforms when the candidates he has selected take office, whether it be in local or national government.

Government as a whole is far too complex to be greatly affected by off-year elections, especially when the results show both parties maintaining considerable power. Under the parliamentary system, a single party is in control of both the executive and legislative branches. There is no divided government. The United States is the only country where such a division is permitted, and very little progress is made when one party has a majority in the legislative body and another runs the executive branch.

The American people usually vote against the party in power when they are discontented. They vote for change in the hope that the party out of power can do more for them than the party in office. But in an off-year election they do not vote for a president, so there can be no shift in the White House.

Changes made in Congress cannot be decisive unless the opposition party gets a big enough majority in each house to override a presidential veto on important legislation. The net result is a stalemate on many issues, and the natural tendency is for each side to wait for the next election to try to get a president with a sizable majority in Congress of the same party.

Meanwhile, the American people find the country drifting along, as they see Congress coming to grips with only a few of the vital issues and failing to exhibit a sense of urgency on behalf of all the people. A divided government is never as good as a united government, particularly at a time when an international situation can develop grave problems capable of deepening even more the unhappy mood of the nation.

The initiative for legislation is in the hands of leaders in both houses of Congress as well as in the White House. Constructive proposals can be put before the people and public sentiment mobilized provided partisanship is put aside. But the government of the United States is still not a harmonious or effectively operating institution.

Congress is today controlled by different blocs, and a president doesn't have the power to put through legislation that he would have if the nation voted him a substantial majority in both Houses for a four-year term. Mid-term elections for Congress are not helpful in modern times.

Home Is Key to 'Good Schools'

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It has not been generally reported, but some by-product data coming out of a series of government studies over the past few years strongly indicates that the amount of money a community spends on its schools has very little effect on what students achieve.

This is not to say that students don't differ in achievement or that some schools don't, on the average, turn out students who do better on tests and in college than students from other schools. But so far as these surveys go, the differences in achievement don't seem to be related to the money spent—when other factors are accounted for.

In general, school facilities, school curricula and teacher quality seem to have little effect. Teacher attitudes apparently have greater influence than teacher quality, but the difference is slight. What does make a significant difference in student achievement, apparently, is the general educational background and aspirations of the majority of students in the school.

That is, the attitude of the other students seems to be more important than the quality of the school buildings, the equipment, the curriculum and even more important by far than the quality and the attitude of the teachers.

The attitude and quality of the fellow students, in turn, seems to relate directly to the kind of families the majority of the student body comes from.

There is considerable evidence in these surveys that the kind of family a child comes from has much more of an effect on his learning than the money spent on the school and the quality of the teachers.

Achievement is directly related to the interests of their parents in their school work. The effect of this parental interest on achievement apparently increases as the student progresses from grade one through grade 12, which is as far as these surveys have measured.

School achievement is little affected by the economic level of their home but greatly affected by the education level of their parents and the educational material in the home.

Educational achievement is greater if there is a father in the home.

The surveys indicate that an ambitious, eager child can learn in any school. An apathetic, uninterested child has a difficult time learning in even a good school.

Now if these very tentative findings turn out to have validity, it would be wise for us to go slow in making major changes in how and what the schools teach without first finding out what changes would make significant difference in educational achievement.

Perhaps we have been going at this education business the wrong way.

The question we need to ask ourselves is why in one home the father and mother stress learning and achievement and why in another home they do not—sometimes in the same neighborhoods with roughly the same mean income level. Or perhaps it is that some parents stress their interest more effectively and some (with equally good intent) fumble at the job.

Perhaps, as some research men have suggested at science conferences this reporter has attended, the way to get better students is through educating the parents. But how and in what way does a democratic society get to parents so that they will inspire their youngsters?

Meanwhile, this reporter intends to go on voting for local school bond issues.

Jack Anderson Says Peace Corps Promises to Have A Job for Caroline Kennedy

WASHINGTON— "Yes, Caroline, the Peace Corps will be here for you to join by the time you are ready." This pledge has been made to the late President John F. Kennedy's daughter, Caroline, by Peace Corps Director Joseph Blatchford.

Nearly 13 years old now, Caroline Kennedy told a reporter wistfully that she would like to serve America in the Peace Corps "if it will still be going on by the time, I could join."

Her statement was read by Blatchford, who wrote her a personal letter. He urged her to join the Peace Corps and promised she would find the "ideals set forth by your father" still intact.

In this unique communication between a Nixon administration official and the daughter of the man who almost sent Nixon to political oblivion, Blatchford wrote:

"I noticed that you wondered whether there would be a Peace Corps still in operation by the time you are ready to join. Let me assure you that we fully expect to be here for quite some time to come."

"As long as there are needs to be met and people like yourself who want to help others, then the Peace Corps will continue to provide the avenue for action."

"Of course, the Peace Corps is undergoing some changes. But, as you have already learned, no institution can remain static and still retain its vigor."

"The Peace Corps must change to keep in step with the changing conditions in our world. We are almost ten years old now and change is part of growing up."

"But in growing up, we have not and will not grow away from the goals and ideals set forth by your father for this daring experiment. Those goals and ideals remain to serve as clear guidelines and a source of strength for the future."

"Yes, Caroline, the Peace Corps will be here for you to join by the time you are ready. And it will be most happy to have you."

In a handwritten P.S.,

Blatchford added: "I hope that your brother and cousins will share your interest in the PC and consider joining some day."

GOP Financial Victory
In most states, today's elections are too close to predict safely which party will come out ahead. But it is already clear who has won the contest for campaign funds.

The Republicans have won the dollar derby so decisively that there is reason to fear for the security of the two-party system.

Although the nation's lax campaign finance laws enable political givers and takers to camouflage their collections, the available figures indicate a whopping Republican advantage.

Since last year, the various GOP national committees have raked in more than $18 million while the debt-ridden Democrats have managed to raise only about $3.5 million.

Since at least four of the Democratic senatorial candidates have personal fortunes, the GOP's fund-raising triumph might not show clearly at the polls. But the implications of this trend are ominous for the future.

The prospects are poor for a candidate who cannot afford television, travel and the costly services of political PR men. Thus in the long run, the party with the money will control the country.

In this situation, the Democrats clearly have the most to lose. Yet the Democrats in Congress have balked at changing the system. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., for example, would like the taxpayers to help finance national elections. He believes the public would be better off if their elected officials were indebted to the taxpayers, instead of the special interests.

But Long's party colleagues have given his efforts a frosty reception. Even as thoughtful a man as Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield has privately expressed doubts about campaign funding plans that would put challengers on an equal financial footing with incumbents.

Violence Has Bred Repression In Canada's Embattled Quebec

By TOM TIEDE

MONTREAL — (NEA) — A policeman and an army sentry stopped a long-haired student outside a side entrance to the University of Quebec the other day. It was a routine identification. But in a moment a small, curious crowd had gathered, led by a chunky Australian immigrant who urged the officers to "Give 'em what for, mates, put his bloody ass in jail."

It was typical of the mood of this city and this province today.

As elsewhere, there has never been wide sympathy in Canada for those people popularly associated with the revolutionary left—students, Communists or whatever. The mayor of Montreal once said bluntly: "Hippies are not welcome in our city." But now what was once merely suspicion has turned to open animosity.

Shocked by the recent terrorist kidnappings and murder, buffeted again by the government's imposition of near-martial law restriction, Canadians of varied backgrounds have reacted with rare, sometimes ugly unanimity. They want justice done, a return to normalcy—and they want it by whatever means necessary.

The means the government is using are harsh: abrupt curtailment of individual freedoms. Using a World War II "War Measures Act," half of Canada's combat military—perhaps 11,000 troops—have been moved into action to crush "potential civil insurrection." Along with an equal number of police, authorities now have almost unlimited power to arrest and detain anyone at any time.

There has been some muted outrage at the severity of this dominion reaction. T. C. Douglas, head of the minority National Democratic party, says: "It's like surgery to cure a cold. We can't defend democracy by eroding it." In the long run, perhaps, his words are likely to characterize the present situation.

But in the short run, the characterization is completely the opposite. Rather than arguing, many Canadians seem to accept, even enjoy the emergency jerk to law and order. Pollster George Gallup has determined that 51 per cent of Canada's population (and 54 per cent of Quebec's) agree with the "get-tough" policy concerning leftists. Thirty-seven per cent more feel things should be even tougher.

Everywhere here, there are signs of a sentiment that is at least excessive and at most dangerous. Robert Limieux, a young, angry attorney who has represented the Quebec terrorists during this current period (and has been jailed for the association), says he has received a letter from "the Canada Vigilantes" which advises him that someone would "come and slaughter you and yours."

Letters to the editors of various French-language newspapers cry, "au poteau" (to the gallows) with revolutionaries. Ladies in some sections of Montreal offer hot soup in gratitude for the presence of federal guards with Sten submachine guns. Work-a-day types such as taxi driver Harold Unger sum it up: "Those goddamn terrorists should be strung by the feet. Give me five minutes in a room with one of them. I tell you, I'd know what to do all right."

And not only does the sentiment stem from the people, but from some of their representatives as well. There is talk in the legislature about reinstating the death penalty. The minister of defense has speculated about the possibility of increasing Canada's military strength (now only 90,000). Police in Montreal have been quoted as hoping the new laws "give us a chance to pick up some bloody bastards we never could before." The mayors of President Nixon, of course, is keenly aware of the Republican financial advantage. His veto of a bill to curb campaign television spending, clearly, was good Republican politics.

The Democrats have the power to override the President's veto, but there is no certainty they will. If they do not, and fail to follow up with still other reforms, they had better start looking for a flock of millionaires to run for office.

Vietnam Offensive

As we have previously reported, captured documents indicate that the North Vietnamese will launch a Cambodian offensive this month. There is evidence, however, that the offensive may be intended merely to keep the Cambodian army off balance and to create general chaos.

The captured instructions reveal that the North Vietnamese continue to emphasize guerrilla rather than conventional tactics. Hanoi apparently hopes to build up a native Cambodian movement to take over the country so that an eventual conquest can be sold to the world as "liberation" instead of outright aggression.

An estimated 50,000 North Vietnamese troops are reported inside Cambodia. But less than 10,000, according to the captured documents, will be committed to the November offensive.

The majority will be used to recruit native Cambodian guerrillas to organize liberation committees in the villages, and to establish a guerrilla operation on the South Vietnamese pattern.

Footnote: General Creighton Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, has forwarded a secret report to the Pentagon warning that most of the Viet Cong infrastructure remains intact and that the Saigon government has been infiltrated by Viet Cong from the top down to the village level. The report also declared that the South Vietnamese Army is still completely dependent upon the United States for equipment, planning and combat support.

BERRY'S WORLD

"If you're going to wear THAT—it's only right for me to wear THESE!"

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened slightly higher in moderate turnover today.

Caution was expected to be the general rule on Wall Street this election day. But some analysts believed Monday's late rally could spill over to early dealings, although they noted it may take some fresh incentive to sustain demand in view of the concern about the economy and the strike at General Motors.

Shortly after the opening, advances were leading declines, 202 to 133. The Dow Jones industrial average was unchanged at 758.01.

Steels followed a mixed pattern, with U.S. Steel ahead 1/4 to 30, and Republic 1/4 higher at 27 1/2. Bethlehem surrendered 1/4 to 21 1/2.

In the chemicals, Union Carbide added 1/4 to 34 1/2, with Allied Chemical up 1/4 to 18 1/2. Du Pont dipped 1/4 to 118 1/2. Monsanto 1/4 to 31 1/2.

Police Probe 2 Burglaries

KINGSTON

City Detectives are today investigating two overnight burglaries in the uptown district. Detective William Slover said a side window was forced open by the thieves at Terri's Grocery, 121 Wall Street, where $200 cash, a radio, and 60 cartons of cigarettes were looted.

At Bill's Mobil Gas Station, 1 Boulevard, burglars smashed the glass on a small door leading to the lubrication area to gain entry, police said. Stolen was $225 reported.

Nation to . . .

Goodell. Both the Republican-Liberal and Democratic candidates spent the day urging voters to unite behind them to defeat Buckley.

Buckley is running with the silent blessing of the Nixon administration which has not directly endorsed him but has said flatly it does not back Goodell or Ottinger. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew at one point flew into New York to attend a fund raising affair for Buckley and said in a speech a few days later Goodell was the "Christine Jorgensen of the Republican Party."

Control of the state legislature and the 41 New York seats in Congress were also up for grabs. Republicans were favored to pick up a seat or two in the Congressional delegation, which Democrats now control with a 26-15 edge.

The legislature reapportioned the congressional districts this year and placed two incumbents, Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam, a Democrat, and Republican Daniel E. Button of Albany in the same district. The head-on clash amounts to a referendum on the Vietnam war, with Button supporting Goodell's resolution to withdraw all troops by a specified deadline.

In Buffalo, former Bills football quarterback Jackie Kemp is scrambling for a congressional seat against Democrat Thomas Flaherty, and on Long Island, Democratic Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, the man given much of the credit for getting the anti-war ball moving in the 1968 presidential campaign, is fighting for his political life against Republican State Sen. Norman F. Lent.

Republicans now control both houses of the legislature and should have little trouble keeping the State Senate. While they are generally favored to retain the Assembly too, Democrats have pumped considerable funds into a dozen key races where they hope to make gains. Seats in Buffalo, Syracuse and Albany hold the key to the Assembly.

Two political warhorses whose state service pre-dates Rockefeller — Republican Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz and Democratic Comptroller Arthur Levitt — should win easily.

Guilty as Charged

NEW CASTLE, Australia (UPI) — Laborer Vincent Renshaw pleaded guilty today to assaulting a fellow worker for working as hard as three or four men.

The court was told Renshaw saw John Ozdovoy loading two bags of wheat at a time on a truck instead of one and after exchanging words "Renshaw punched Ozdovoy a number of times about the head and body," police said.

Renshaw's attorney told the court his client lost his temper because Ozdovoy was doing work normally done by three or four men.

Prison Inmates Abandon Bid For Freedom

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — A group of inmates at the Cummins Prison Farm abandoned a bid for freedom after holding four men hostage for 13 hours.

The inmates, armed with two .38-caliber pistols, had originally demanded a car, a full tank of gasoline and time to escape, threatening to kill the hostages if their demands were not met.

Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver and Prison Supt. Bill Steed talked the inmates into giving up late Monday.

The four hostages were Larry Doss, 21, and Jimmy Morris, 20, both civilian employees, and Jimmy Provins and Joe Reed, inmate trustees.

Sarver said 17 or 18 inmates were involved in the uprising in the Cummins' isolation unit.

Sarver said the inmates complained about sanitary conditions, inadequate kitchen utensils, lack of clothing and too many security shakedowns and said that too often the inmate guards fired their weapons while guarding inmates working in the prison fields.

"After we sat down and talked, the men were pretty reasonable," Sarver said.

Village Police Probe Burglary At Ellenville

ELLENVILLE — A burglary at the home of Manuel Miller at 3 Lake Drive, this village, was under investigation today by village police.

Authorities said the residence was entered through a door on the north side of the house. Investigation by Patrolman C. B. Freer Jr., disclosed that an electric razor valued at $39, a television set with $200 and a gold and yellow wristwatch valued at $675 had been stolen.

Police also reported the arrest Monday night of William F. Jones, 45, of 17 Rear Chapel Street, this village, on a charge of criminal trespass third degree, a misdemeanor. He was accused of entering the basement of a mercantile-apartment building at 17 Market Street. Jones was held for a hearing at 7 p. m. today before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias.

Intensive Hunt Pressed For Matteawan Escapees

Authorities throughout the Mid-Hudson Valley today pressed an intensive search for two inmates — both considered extremely dangerous who escaped Saturday night from the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Meanwhile, New York City police kept the homes of the pair in the New York area under surveillance in the event either or both might try to contact relatives or friends.

State police bloodhounds from Hawthorne and helicopters were used Sunday and again Monday as authorities combed the area in the vicinity of the state institution on the ground and in the air. It was believed by police officials that the two inmates may be hiding in the wooded area not far from the hospital.

Roving patrols of troopers aided by other police in the area continued to seek traces of the men and motorists were warned not to pick up hitchhikers on highways in the vicinity of the institution.

A police bulletin noted that one of the fugitives, Robert Bartschi, 36, "has shot at police without warning in the past." Bartschi, described as a white male, 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighing 134 pounds, had been indicted in Queens on charges of attempted murder of a policeman and assault. On two previous occasions he had tried unsuccessfully to escape

BEACON from the hospital. Famiglietti, 32, was convicted City for robbery. Wright was pressed to the institution last July, fol-described as a white male, Wright, also known as Joseph, following his arrest in New York 5 ft. 9 in. tall, weigh, 167 lbs.

Finance Forum Meets With Success; Others

The Women's Finance Forum on Thursday night, Oct. 29, sponsored by The State of New York National Bank, drew an enthusiastic response from more than 200 women.

At the conclusion of the program in the George Washington School auditorium, one of the women from the audience asked Harry Rigby Jr., the closing speaker for the bank, "When can we expect another forum like this?" Rigby asked for a show of hands from the ladies and on the basis of a large affirmative response, announced the bank would agree to sponsor the forums on an annual basis.

Robert B. Murray, vice president of the bank, welcomed the women at the opening and introduced Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, women's page editor of The Daily Freeman and local radio commentator, who delivered the theme address, "It's a Woman's World."

Mrs. Narel pointed out that while there was some progress yet to be made for women's rights, it was unquestioned that the women of America were the owners of a large part of the wealth of the country, were in a large number of cases contributing family breadwinners and were recognized as running the finances of most families. In an aside, she said this was particularly evident in this Hudson Valley and was attributable historically to the heritage of enlightened recognition of female equality only by the Dutch in colonial America 300 years ago. She called for the nurturing of those local basic rights as a patrimony and suggested that they be properly expanded in an expanding country and economy.

David W. Hoffman,

registered representative of the Kingston brokerage office of Loeb Rhoades & Co., found a lively interest among his listeners as he discussed the whole gamut of securities investment ranging from common and preferred stocks and mutual funds to bonds, government, corporate and municipal.

John H. Barry, vice president and trust officer of The State of New York National Bank in Poughkeepsie, emphasized the advisability of trusts, and particularly for the administration of estates, to arrange for orderly disposition of assets according to a preconceived plan which definitely names chosen heirs and to legally avoid excessive estate taxes in some areas.

He recommended as ideal a team which would include a personal attorney, a bank trust officer and additionally an accountant if the complexity and size of the estate warranted it.

Howard A. DeWitt, vice president and trust officer at the Kingston area offices of The State of New York National Bank, served as a resource expert on the question-and-answer panel.

Miss Mary Farina, acting group supervisor of the regional U.S. Internal Revenue Service office in Albany, clarified many income tax problems for an already knowledgeable audience.

Elwood D. Hollister, executive director of the New York Higher Education Assistance Corporation, undoubtedly pointed the avenue for higher education advantages for children of many ladies who had felt that it was financially unattainable. He noted a number of public and private resources that were unknown to his listeners.

Coffee and pastries were served at midpoint in the school cafeteria, under the direction of John Johnson, director of food services of the Kingston City Schools Consolidated.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Try using a tray and paint roller (the fluffier kind) to apply paste to new wallpaper. It's so fast and covers all the edges, which is so important. It's really fun pasting this way and much less work.
Shirley Bedow

Dear Heloise:
For several years we have been using burlap bags (in which we buy feed), stitched them together and use them for collecting leaves...
A "Suburbanite"

I open the seams of four of these bags, rinse them slightly and dry thoroughly so I can stitch them together on the sewing machine, making a good-sized blanket.

This is very strong material that I have found will last for years, and it will carry heavy twigs or almost ANYTHING you may be clearing away.

A "Suburbanite"

LETTER OF LAUGHTER
Dear Heloise:
I clean my oven once a year whether it needs it or not!
Barbara

Dear Heloise:
I find many times that I need something more than a bar of soap at my kitchen sink to dissolve grease, etc. from my hands while cooking.

At first, I used an empty mustard jar with a pump. Filled it with three-parts liquid detergent and one-part water, then shook it up.

Thereafter, when needed, I would dispense a small amount with the side of my hand and wash away, leaving no messy bar of soap.

This was so successful that I bought two hand cream dispensers at the dime store, filled each as above and now keep one in both my kitchen and my bathroom.

Doing The Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute

Dear Mrs. Post: I remember being told that it is not "good form" to start a letter, or even a paragraph with "I." How important is this? Seems to me that the avoidance of "I" is a reminder that the recipient, not the writer, is uppermost in the writer's mind. Not a bad thought, but, like the split-infinitive or the preposition-at-the-end-of-a-phrase, sometimes the "I" is more expressive or emphatic. —Mrs. R. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: I have heard of the rule you mention, and have little use for it. The careful avoidance of the use of "I" at the beginning of a paragraph tends to make a letter wordy and stilted, just as does the total avoidance of split-infinitives and the "preposition rule."

These "errors" should be avoided whenever possible, but when the alternative form is more natural and simpler, I would use it. Which of the following, for example, sounds better to you?

A rule like this imposes an inconvenience I will not put up with.

A rule like this imposes an inconvenience up with which I will not put.

Dear Mrs. Post: Last night some friends dropped in after dinner and I offered them coffee. The lady said "I can't drink coffee at night, but I would love some Sanka." That put me in a spot and embarrassed me since I didn't have any. Am I wrong, or was she wrong in asking for something other than what I offered? —Marion Jensen

Dear Mrs. Jensen: You were both wrong to some extent. So many people prefer caffeine-free coffees today that hostesses should try to have it available and offer it. But since you did not, she should not have said more than "I can't take coffee, thank you—it keeps me awake," and thus have given you the prerogative of offering something else.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column every Friday. Send your question to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

The Philharmonic is going to try again—Rudolph Firkusny is coming back to give a concert November 8 from 2-4 p.m. in the auditorium of Kingston High School. His last concert try before 500 music lovers was interrupted by the fire department and the reports of bombs planted in the building.

Kids on March

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON Downtown kids are on the march but no one's worried about it. In fact, just about everyone concerned, parents and youngsters, are pretty excited about it.

To be precise, some 75 youngsters, primarily from the downtown area of Kingston, have formed a precision drill team face two major problems, financing and a place to practice as winter draws near. The youngsters raised $100 at a dance at the recreation center but they'll need a lot more than that, according to Brown. "We're figuring on about $30 to $40 per uniform per child. Fortunately, there aren't that many instruments involved, maybe a couple of drums and a couple of bugles."

Every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They've been drilling along Chambers Street, but it's getting cold. "We're hoping that the Board of Education will let us use the JFK School three nights a week," Brown said.

After a winter of intensive drill, the Soulful Struts of Kingston hope to join their counterparts, the Tighten Ups from Poughkeepsie as feature attractions in area parades.

STEPPING OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT — Mrs. Ella Lindsay, treasurer of the Soulful Struts precision drill team, makes a point with the president of the parents committee, Mrs. Delores Costello, at a recent organizational meeting at 11 Broadway. and called themselves "The Soulful Struts."

It all started, says Edward Brown, a neighborhood aide working out of the Rondout Community Center at 11 Broadway, during the annual Children's Day Parade this August put on by the Kingston Recreation Department.

One of the groups in the parade was a precision drill team from Poughkeepsie called "The Tighten Ups." "Our kids really liked that group," Brown says. "They got talking to some of them after the parade and decided to form their own group."

Inquiries were made and the local group found an eager supporter, John Hogan, a barber from Poughkeepsie, who drills the Tighten Ups. "He got us going," Brown said. "He comes up twice a week to help our kids in their drill routines."

Brown adds that Hogan refuses to take a cent in payment, not even for carfare between Kingston and Poughkeepsie. "He just likes to see kids active in this sort of thing," Brown said.

Oddly enough, most of the youngsters are girls. "I don't know why, but the girls really seem to like this kind of activity. Out of the 70 or so kids, I'd say that maybe 50 of them are girls."

Right now, the Soulful Struts

Esopus Town Confident of Chest Goal

PORT EWEN

Mrs. Barbara Read of Port Ewen, general chairman for the Ulster County Young Chest campaign in the Town of Esopus, said today that the more than 40 workers were out for the door-to-door solicitation of the Town of Esopus Sunday. Chairman Read said that while she has not as yet received all of the financial reports from her many volunteer workers, the preliminary indications seem to point to a successful campaign for the Ulster County Community Chest in the township. The goal for the 1970-71 campaign in the Town is $2,000, and the major source of that goal will come from the Special Gifts, Retail, and House-to-House phases of the Community Organization Division in Esopus.

Mrs. Read, who in addition to serving as general chairman in the Town of Esopus, also served in the dual capacity of the house-to-house chairman for the area, and was responsible for that important phase of the drive in her Town.

A lifelong resident of the area, Mrs. Read has been extremely active in community affairs. The Port Ewen resident currently serves as the corresponding secretary and member of the executive board of the Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club, chairman of the Housewives for Rockefeller organization in the Town of Esopus and third vice president of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club. Mrs. Read also is an active member of Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary, the Ulster County Young Republican Club and the Coach House Players of Kingston, as well as having acted as makeup director for both the Coach House Players and the Kiwanis Kapers. Last year Mrs. Read served as advisor to the Distributive Education class of 1969 and the Future Business Leaders, and prior to that was on the Advisory Board of the Sing-Out Kingston organization.

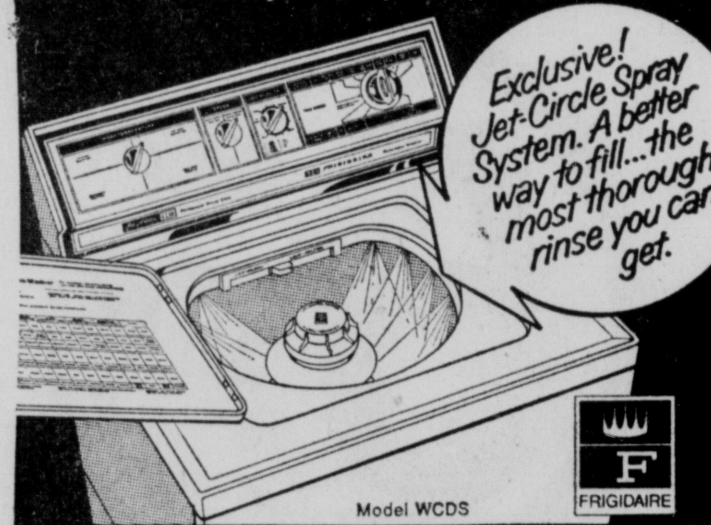

Brown says there will be other fund raising events but that the bulk of the money will have to come from the respective parents. Mrs. Delores Costello of Rondout Gardens seems to think that that money will be forthcoming. "We had 50 parents at our last meeting," she says. "The parents like the idea. It gives the kids something to do and the kids like it."

Right now, the Soulful Struts meet every Wednesday afternoon at 5 p.m. for drills and

UCCC Faculty 'Teach-In' on Contract Dispute

By JEAN DOLAN

STONE RIDGE

A "Teach-In" to explain UCCC Faculty Association's position in current negotiations follows on the heels of Monday's picket lines at the County Office Building.

A rally got underway at 1:30 this afternoon on the plaza steps of Macdonald DeWitt Library so that members of the Faculty Association could answer student questions concerning contract talks between the faculty and the County Legislature negotiating Committee.

At a special senate meeting of the Student Government Organization last week, students approved a motion to support the faculty in whatever means they choose in the contract dispute. The motion lent formal student sentiment to the faculty position.

Faculty Association members picketed the County Office Building to register their protest Monday. Calling for round-the-clock negotiations to settle the matter of salaries and other terms, the participants in the protest line carried placards and distributed fact sheets stating their position.

Negotiation teams met last night and a further negotiation session is slated for Thursday afternoon. William West, Woodstock county legislator who represented Brian White, chairman of the Community College Committee at last night's talks, said today that progress was being made slowly.

In pressing their demands for acceptance of the previously negotiated contract which was rejected by the County Legislature in its college budget vote, members of the Faculty Association contend that the quality of the college will be impaired.

The Faculty Association, in its presentation, stressed five points of possible severe blows to the well being of the college if demands are not met.

The fact sheet states "second rate support will ultimately produce second rate faculty; destruction of faculty and college morale; a politically-dominated college with all the shots called by those not qualified for the role. A threat to the entire college climate — academic freedom, progressive curricula, impartial faculty evaluation and sound educational decisions; improperly trained career students and poorly qualified ill-advised transfer students."

There has been talk of a possible strike move by the Faculty Association off and on since the opening of the fall semester. As far as could be ascertained today no strike vote had been taken.

Saugerties Village Board Action

5 Policemen to Be Feted

Five Saugerties village patrolmen will be awarded citations at a suitable occasion for police action performed in two recent incidents.

Saugerties Village Board on the recommendation of Police Commissioner Walter Keefe at the Monday night meeting approved the presentation of citations in recognition of police and investigative work performed on two occasions last month.

To be cited for an arrest in the burglary attempt at the J.J. Newberry store will be Officers William McPeck, William Kimble Jr., and Edgar Peterson. Officers Harry Vickery and Marvin Osborn will be cited for investigative work performed in connection with a narcotics raid in the village last month.

Police Chief Gordon Keeley reported he was issuing a warning through the news media that all vehicle and traffic laws will be strictly enforced. Various violations have been reported and village patrolmen have been instructed to keep a close surveillance on the sites of the alleged violations.

Police Commissioner Keefe reported that Halloween was quiet and peaceful and there was only one violation of the 6 p.m. curfew. This youngster was brought home.

Both the police commissioner Richard J. Underhill commended the firemen and members of the police force for their efforts on Halloween night.

Two purchases of equipment were approved by the Village Board. Street Commissioner Maurice Clements was empowered to purchase a welder at a cost not to exceed $700 and Sanitation Commissioner John Rivenberg was authorized to purchase two electric heaters, one for each of the sewerage disposal plants at Dock Street and East Bridge Street.

Rivenberg also announced that two men at the plant, James Krom and Thomas Gilmore Jr., will be attending Grade II operator's school at Syracuse Nov. 30 to Dec. 12. A certificate is presented for successful completion of the course certifying them as sewerage treatment plant operators.

Keefe, the newly appointed trustee sat at his first board meeting and was welcomed by Mayor Cornelius M. Cox and the other board members.

"I've designed and built everything from conventional, low-cost houses to $100,000 custom homes. I find that electric heat makes better design possible at lower construction cost. It gives maximum comfort, and I can tell my clients almost exactly what their operating costs will be. (The costs are surprisingly low) That's why I build total-electric homes."

There are other reasons than comfort and economy. There's quiet operation, dependability and cleanliness. But find out for yourself — call Central Hudson for a complete heating estimate.

Hanratty Bails Out Harassed Bradshaw

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A frustrated Terry Bradshaw vows he won't play second fiddle to Terry Hanratty after this season.

The golden haired Pittsburgh Steeler rookie quarterback has not been the cure-all quarterback he was billed to be and now he admits he's pressing.

Pittsburgh defeated the Cincinnati Bengals 21-10 Monday night, but it was Hanratty, coming off the bench, who bailed out the Steelers in the fourth quarter. He threw a touchdown pass and led them to another score.

"I'll never sit on the bench behind a second-year man," Bradshaw said. "It's obvious Coach (Chuck) Noll will have to make a decision at the end of the year. He's given me all the chance in the world but I haven't done anything. And if I'm going to be on the bench, I want to play behind a veteran so I can learn.

"I really don't mind if I don't start. But Terry's young and I'm young. If the coach says he's No. 1, fine, then ship me out. I just wouldn't be happy playing behind him."

Bradshaw started the nationally televised game but Hanratty took over midway in the third quarter with the Steelers behind 10-7.

For the night, Bradshaw, pro football's No. 1 draft choice, completed only four of 12 passes for 40 yards. Hanratty was seven for 11 and 128 yards.

"He looked unsettled," said Noll of Bradshaw.

"It's getting to me now," said Bradshaw. "I'm really unhappy with myself. I just have to go and search myself. I need to sit on the bench. I definitely think Terry deserves to start."

The thought of later attending a seminar also continued on Bradshaw's mind.

"I feel called to do that kind of work. I also feel called to play football. I've always thought if then it would help attract people to the other."

Meanwhile, Hanratty was keeping silent.

"Each to his own," he replied when asked about Bradshaw's remarks.

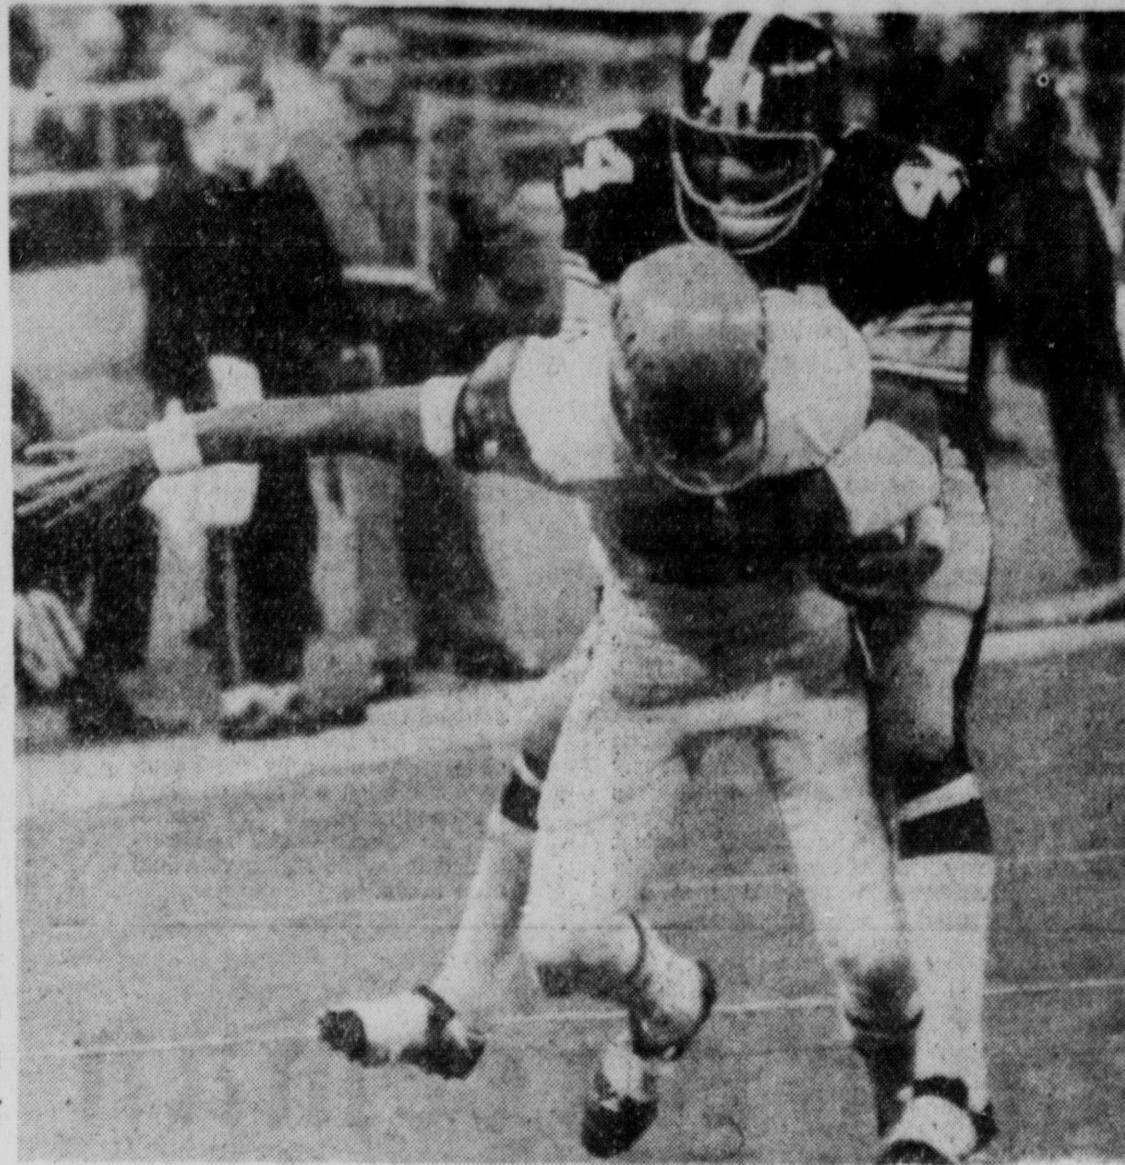

The victory was admittedly sweet for Hanratty but even as he savored the taste of success he would not comment on possibly starting.

"Every quarterback wants to start," he said. "But I'll leave the decision up to the coach."

Hanratty unleashed a 72-yard touchdown bomb in the fourth quarter to tight end Dennis Hughes on a play which called for him to pass to receiver Dave Smith. But Smith was covered.

Safety Kenny Graham had an arm on Hughes, but when he caught the ball at the 25 Hughes got away.

Hanratty then led the Steelers 75 yards in nine plays for another touchdown in the fourth quarter. Warren Bankston scored from the one.

STOPPED AT ONE — Cincinnati Bengals' Eric Crabtree is stopped at 1-yard-line by Steelers' Lee Calland in second quarter of game Monday night. Crabtree caught a long pass from Virgil Carter to set up the Bengals' first touchdown. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Texas Riding High

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Six, five, four, three, two ... Notre Dame is moving up.

One, two, three ... Ohio State is moving out.

But there's still room at the top for the Texas Longhorns, who remained No. 1 for the second week in the Associated Press' college football poll Monday.

The United Press International poll also showed Texas as the Number One team in the nation with the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame second. Last week, the Associated Press had listed Texas as No. 1 with Ohio State second and the Irish, third.

Texas captured 18 of the 34 first-place votes cast by members of the 35-Coach UPI Board and amassed 321 votes to easily dislodge Ohio State. Notre Dame, with seven first place votes, had 309 points, 20 more than the Buckeyes, whose seven first place votes helped gain them 289 points.

Notre Dame's crack Irish troops have marched about a place a week since September, supplanting Ohio State as the No. 2 team. The Buckeyes, who were the front runners until bumped by Texas two weeks ago, retreated to third.

The Fighting Irish's tall story doesn't impress Coach Ara Parseghian, who insists it's a long, long time from September to November.

"It (the poll) has no effect on us now," he said. "We're more interested in the polls in late November (at the end of the regular season)."

Notre Dame won its sixth in a row last Saturday by staggering helplessness Navy 56-7, and Parseghian was accused in some quarters of running up the score. But Navy Coach Rick Forzano wouldn't buy it.

"It could have been much worse," said Forzano. "I talked to Ara after the game and told him I realized they could have put the ball in the air more, and that I appreciate that they didn't. He didn't run the score up. He was as fair as fair can be."

Sports writers and broadcasters around the country handed 20 first place votes to Texas for a total of 701 points, a fingertip 17-point lead over Notre Dame's 684. Ohio State had 617 in the too-close-for-comfort race.

Texas shut down quarterback Chuck Hixson's Magnificent Flying Machine in beating Southern Methodist 42-15 over the weekend and Ohio State slapped Northwestern 24-10.

Nebraska, Michigan and Stanford stayed 4-5-6 with impressive weekend victories. Arkansas and Tennessee each moved up a spot to seventh and eighth. Air Force slumped from seventh to ninth and Auburn rounded out the top ten.

Haynie Is Golfer Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandra Haynie has won 19 tournaments in her 10-year career as a professional golfer but the only trophies she displays in her Texas home are a couple of stuffed dolphins.

"My mother has all the silver stuff," said the LPGA's 1970 Player of the Year offhandedly. Miss Haynie is as blasé about her victories as she is about the player of the year honor.

"I didn't even know I was close until last Thursday when I read it in the paper. It's not something I think about at the start of the year," said the 27-year-old Fort Worth native who plays out of Runaway Bay, Tex. Sandy took the honor based on points, by edging out Kathy Whitworth, who had won it each year since its inception in 1966.

While she's casual about her game which averages "right at 73" and earned her $26,605.96 this year, she's adamant about her sympathy for football players and her sentiments about the midlife crisis.

Sandy tripped over a curb four years ago and injured her knee. Each year she underwent a couple of months of therapy and finally in September 1969 underwent surgery.

"Did I ever develop sympathy for football players?" she said emphatically. "I started exercising my knee the day after surgery and the pain would bring big tears. Football players start their exercise in the recovery room."

Sandra started the 1970 season without full use of her leg but was runnerup in the first tournament, losing in a playoff to Carol Mann. She went on to win two tournaments and finish second in five.

The golfer with the close-cropped hair complementing her compact 5-foot-4 frame swears she'll never wear the mid-20s on the golf course or off. She prefers the chic pants outfits, something unheard-of in the mid-career era of the mid-1950s when she was making her name as an amateur golfer.

"I wouldn't play in the tournaments in which we had to wear skirts then," she recalled. "And I'll pass on them now."

Casper on Top

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Casper remained golf's No. 1 money winner for the year and Lee Trevino retained his lead in the point race, based on tournament finishes, weekly statistics showed Monday.

The figures from the PGA Tournament Players Division show Casper with winnings of $146,372 to $140,286 for runnerup Jack Nicklaus.

Trevino, who didn't play in the Sahara Open won by Babe Hickey, had his point lead shaved to one-half point by Bruce Crampton. Trevino has 1,336.1 points, Crampton 1,335.6.

Hickey's $20,000 first prize in the Sahara, increased his 1970 earnings to $26,625.70.

Meggysey Blows A Shrill Whistle

NEW YORK (AP) — The football player who thrills millions on television screens Saturday and Sunday afternoons is a synthetic product who often is fed drugs and illegal payoffs under the table, charges an ex-pro player.

"When I got to the National Football League I saw players fed, at an astonishing rate, not only steroids but also amphetamines and barbituates," says Dave Meggysey, a former line-backer for the St. Louis Cardinals.

"A lot of NFL trainers do more dealing in drugs than an average junkie."

Meggysey's explosive statements are made in the latest issue of Look Magazine, which is running abstracts of Meggysey's new book entitled "Out Of Their League."

Meggysey, who formerly played at Syracuse University, said. He said arrangements were made for him to pick up $30 a week in a brown manila envelope. Other players got more, he added.

Under National Collegiate Athletic Association regulations, an athlete is permitted to receive only payment for tuition, board, books and $15 a month for laundry.

"When a player is injured," Meggysey also charged, "he is sent to the team physician who is usually more concerned with getting the athlete back into action than anything else. This reversal of priorities leads to unbelievable abuses."

At Syracuse, Chancellor John Corbally, Jr., and Head Coach Ben Schwartzwalder declined comment. In New York, Don Weiss, NFL public relations director, said: "We have no interest whatever in promoting the sale of Meggysey's book."

He said he first became disillusioned with football when he played at Syracuse University. "One of the big shocks of my freshman year was finding out that a lot of the guys were getting paid under the table," he

Maroons Hit Peak In Final Action

KINGSTON

"We finally put it all together," said Kingston High School Soccer Coach John Hunter. "The defense held, got the ball to the line. The line moved it up and offense scored. Something we tried to do all year. It's too bad we waited so long to do it," he said.

Hunter was referring to his team's 7-1 win over visiting Newburgh yesterday. It was the last game of the season for the Maroon Booters. Kingston finished in second place in the DUSO League, posting an overall record of 8-1-3 and a league mark of 5-1-2.

The locals had expected that they had a chance to reach the Section Nine Tournament as an at-large selection. However, the committee decided in favor of Clarkstown. The Clarkstown squad posted 11-3-1 mark. Joining them in the tourney will be Washingtonville, Nyack and Middletown, the DUSO champs.

"We really wanted to make that tournament," said Hunter. "But, I guess the powers that be had other ideas. We had a good game yesterday, but I guess it was a case of too little too late. Ed Hopp and Pete Fowler played their finest games of the year for me," he concluded.

Kingston got rolling fast as Pete Boyd took a perfect pass from Fowler and drilled it home for a 1-0 lead at 6:05 in the first period. Boyd added another in the second stanza as he took a penalty kick with 13:40 gone.

The locals had a 3-0 lead on a shot by Pad Nugent with Boyd getting the assist. The half ended with the Maroons holding the three-point edge.

Boyd set up another goal in the third period at 4:05 with Tom Barton belting it home. Fowler added the fifth marker on a direct kick over the middle, coming to rest in the corner of the net.

Newburgh finally got on the board in the third period as Steve Rossiter hit one across the center over the hands of the sub goalie.

The locals added two more in the final period as Rob Darling headed one in at 4:15 after taking a 50-yard pass from Al Ohlson. He put in another at 8:02 on an assist from Art Freer.

Charles Ireland, Haldane, took first place, hitting the chute in 14:01. Doug Halas and Ted Tenore came two-three for Pine Plains before the Red Raiders made their onslaught on the scoring.

In Division One, including Central Section schools, Our Lady of Lourdes edged Ketcham, 32-55, for their title. The cross-country team captured its fifth straight Division Two title at the Dutchess County Scholastic League meet Saturday staged at the Roy C. Ketcham High School course.

Phil Hand was the leading Raider runner, finishing fourth in 14:55. Darin Kilgore came in fifth at 15:07 and Jeff Thompson took sixth in 15:14. After Tom Bauer finished seventh for Pawling, Wayne Rice and Chet Damon captured ninth and tenth positions for the winners.

The Division One scoring had Lourdes post 32, Ketcham—55, Roosevelt—70, John Jay—118, Arlington—132, Poughkeepsie—146, Saugerties—165.

The Cavalier '11'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The New York Knicks were in the midst of their record 18-game winning streak at this time a year ago in the National Basketball Association.

Now the Cleveland Cavaliers are in the midst of setting a league record in reverse. The Cavaliers, who have yet to win, were trounced by the Philadelphia 76ers Monday night 141-87. It was Cleveland's 11th straight defeat.

That leaves the Cavaliers only four games shy of the NBA's longest losing winning streak at the start of a season, 15 by Denver back in Oct.-Dec. 1949.

And if, perchance, Cleveland lost 18 straight that would erase the current longest losing streak of 17, set by San Francisco in 1965 and equalled by San Diego in 1968.

In Tuesday's other NBA games, the Knicks beat San Francisco 111-99 and Phoenix tripped Buffalo 110-92. Unbeaten Utah made it seven in a row whipping Memphis 119-100 in the only American Basketball Association game.

Philadelphia's whopping 54-point margin over Cleveland was the most for the 76ers since a 46-point spread over San Francisco in 1948. The 76ers led by as much as 59 Monday night.

Archie Clark led the balanced 76er attack against the expansion team with 21 points. Jim Washington added 19 for the winners. John Johnson was high for Cleveland with 20.

Phoenix caught Buffalo with its shooters cold and grabbed a 62-44 halftime lead. The expansion Braves shot only 26 per cent from the floor in the first half, and went the first four minutes without a field goal.

Connie Hawkins led the Suns with 29 points and Mike Davis netted 21 for the Braves.

The Knicks went on a 12-2 tear against the Warriors in a 90-second span of the second period to open up a 13-point lead and never were headed. Walt Frazier topped New York with 27 points while Jerry Lucas was high for San Francisco with 20.

Zelmo Beaty and Donnie Freeman each scored eight points in the last eight minutes as Utah broke open a close game. Beaty and Freeman each had 28 points to lead Utah. Craig Raymond rifled in 21 for Memphis.

Dear Abby

Abby Has Problems

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(c) 1970 by Chicago Tribune-
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You are the only person who can help me because in an indirect way, you are the cause of my problem. I have the same name as you. To make matters worse, I work for a newspaper and I am bombarded with letters from people who think I am you.

Also, whenever I am introduced as "Abby Van Buren," people start pouring out their tales of woe. I have a hard time convincing them that I am not you.

To top it all off, I am constantly bothered by nuts who telephone me in the middle of the night and want to tell me their life history. I have had my telephone number changed twice this year, and even though I now have an unlisted number, they still find me.

I have even considered changing my name, but I will do this only as a last resort. Thanks for any help you can give me.

ABBY VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Until some nice young man comes along and changes your name, I guess you'll just have to be a surrogate Abby. You'll be surprised what you hear.

DEAR ABBY: I feel very guilty and indebted because I have no strong feelings toward an 18-year-old boy who says he is in love with me. He is always so kind and gentle and he spends all his hard-earned money on me. He is always looking out for my safety and well-being.

I really enjoy his company and am grateful for his gifts, but I am unable to return his affection.

I would like to date others, but I feel so guilty because I know he has no other girl. I hate to hurt him. Can you advise me what to do?

FEELING GUILTY
DEAR FEELING GUILTY: A little of that guilt is probably earned. Don't accept his gifts, and you will not feel so indebted to him. Date others, and insist that he do, too. By trying not to hurt him now you could be building him up for a more serious "hurt" later on.

DEAR ABBY: I have a thought which I hope you will find worthy of passing on to your readers.

I wish parents of married children would quit competing with the other set of parents for their children's company on holidays such as Thanksgiving and Christmas. Altho our policy was to alternate between his parents and mine, no matter who asked us first, my parents would sulk for months after we spent the holidays with my in-laws.

Both sets of parents are gone now, but those holidays which could have held such pleasant memories cause my heart to ache a little.

SAD MEMORIES
DEAR SAD: Yes, it is worth passing on — especially with the holiday season approaching. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps your reader, "HATES WASTE," would be interested in knowing that the "silly rule of etiquette" that one should always leave "something" on his plate was begun as an act of charity.

During the Middle Ages, the affluent always left some food on their dinner plates for a good reason. A huge bowl was passed to each diner, who wiped his plate clean with a hunk of bread which he also deposited in the bowl. The bowl was then taken out into the streets to feed the poor. If the diner "forgot" to leave something on his plate, he was fined. (The fine would be used to feed the needy.)

Today leaving food on one's plate is wasteful, but it originated as a charitable custom.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Take time to assist persons who are in trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have some ideas that should be studied well before you contact those friends to get them in motion. Steer clear of social events this evening. These could lead to some trouble.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those young people who is always present where there is some sort of trouble brewing. Therefore, any profession such as detective, police, nursing, medicine, etc., would be fine; especially the law. Teach early not to start arguments just for the love of fighting and excitement. Give the benefit of sports to take up the excessive energy and include the finest education possible.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU. Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for November is now ready. BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET.
Why is it that the gals who look best in 'em seldom wear pants suits?

Failure to tell the difference between being broadminded and broadminded gets a lot of fellows into a good deal of trouble at home.

And then there's the fellow who tried to keep his Great Dane in the attic. Had an awful time keeping a wolf over his head.

Nostalgia is the longing for things you couldn't stand 40 years ago.

And then there's the inveterate sportsman who died. The first thing he did in the next world was to apply for a hunting license. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

WHY WE SAY

LOGROLLING
HELP: When a new family settled in pioneer days those already there would roll down logs for the newcomers to build with. The term now has come to mean doing a reciprocal favor in politics, just as the family helped was supposed to return the favor to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to add to present income but it is important you are not forceful with others. Find out what your true position is. It may be that you are not putting certain assets to work, show wisdom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy working on important projects instead of criticizing others. Make your appearance more charming. Looks are more important than you think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not permit others to talk you into a situation that is not good for you at all. Show diplomacy in getting yourself off the hook.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FOUND OUT (Q.) My boy friend and I got in too deep and my father found it out. This was a couple of months ago. We have stopped doing what we were doing and have promised each other that we won't do it again until we are married.

He is nearly 20 and I am nearly 16 and we are going to get married in two years.

Everyone is wonderful about us except my father. He puts me down all the time. He talks about me, not just to people in the family but to neighbors. I know he did some terrible things before he was married and after, too. But he won't listen to me.

He has hurt me so that I'll never forgive him. If he tells me to leave just one more time I think I will. I told my mother to choose between him and me. I guess that wasn't fair to her.—Terribly Hurt in Hollywood, Fla.

(A) Your father's past and present appear to be hurting him terribly, too. He feels guilty. You feel guilty. You can't reach each other.

There must be forgiveness, even though you think it is impossible. Someone has to start. Try, yourself, to be forgiving. If you can find it in your heart to do so, he may see it in your eyes and hear it in your voice. Then he may be able to start forgiving you.

Think seriously, too, about whether you should marry this boy. You are very young to make such an important lifetime decision.

PURPLE (Q.) I have a plaid skirt. The colors are dark purple, olive green, light blue, and white. I have a white shirt and purple vest. Would purple knee socks be too loud for this outfit?—All But the Socks in Elmira, N. Y.

(A) White, off-white, or beige socks would be smarter than purple.

The 11th Hour Politicking

NEW YORK (AP) — Last week, in which he condemned violent demonstrators, occupied the Republican spot. The black-and-white news film was, as stated by a CBS announcer before the program started, "be low broadcast standards" with a noisy and sometimes blurred sound track.

A half hour, purchased by and split between the Republicans and Democrats and used on each network, was placed in various time spots. NBC preempted Red Skelton's ABC "The Silent Force," and CBS, "Mayberry, R.F.D."

Excerpts from President Nixon's Phoenix, Ariz., speech last week, in which he condemned violent demonstrators, occupied the Republican spot. The black-and-white news film was, as stated by a CBS announcer before the program started, "be low broadcast standards" with a noisy and sometimes blurred sound track.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine followed with a low-key campaign talk. This Democrat-sponsored portion was in color, and Muskie was seated in an easy chair in what looked to be an old New England kitchen.

No Time to Open Four-Card Majors

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The argument between four-card and five-card bidders of major suits has been going on for a long time and it is doubtful if it will ever be settled. We stand pretty close to the five-card addicts but don't go all the way. Somehow or other, there will always be hands that really cry out for a four-card, major suit opening.

Not many of them will be in spades. You should try to avoid opening a four-card spade suit. The reason is that a spade opening makes it impossible for partner to respond at the one level in any suit. A heart opening leaves spades available. When you open one club, every other suit is waiting there for you.

That is the basis for the use of three-card club openings. They aren't panacea for all bidding ills. They are a nice all-purpose bid when you have 4-3-3-3 distribution or with other holdings that do not include a long suit.

All except the most fanatical four-card majorities would open today's South hand with one club. Not that it would make much difference in the final contract. This is one hand where all bids lead to four spades.

The heart opening lead makes it easy for South to play dummy's 10. There is always a strong presumption that a defender does not lead away from an ace against a suit contract.

East's best return is a club. This will speed up the play, since the defense will probably proceed to take two club tricks. After that start, South will make the rest of the tricks with great ease.

David Frost, off the networks, devoted 90 minutes to an interview with Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson on her recently published book and her memories of the White House years. The former first lady told with warmth and charm of family life in the mansion—nonstate dinner meals of tapioca pudding and "country fried steak," a Christmas in the White House with all the Johnsons together.

When Frost asked her about her emotions when daughter Luci was converted to Roman Catholicism, Mrs. Johnson explained that her daughter had been on a life-long search, adding she was happy the girl found what she sought. Was it not a shock for her Protestant mother and father?

"Not for him," Mrs. Johnson said. "Lyndon was born ecumenical."

Frost, as usual, moved easily from subject to subject and showed he had done his homework thoroughly.

NBC helped brighten the evening with one of its "World Premiere" features, a two-hour action tale of international intrigue called "Berlin Affair."

Darren McGavin played a familiar role in the McGavin style—an American investigator in Berlin hunting a former coworker who inexplicably had tried to murder him on a bridge at Panther. The solid spy story was full of fights, bugged telephones and a romance. It was given a boost by superb location shooting in West Berlin.

Since "Berlin Affair" like so many made-for-TV film features, could have been spun in an hour, dramatic Berlin exteriors used for chases and the final shootout made the padding al-moment as much of a pleasure to watch as the actors.

CARDINAL CUSHING AT OCT. RITE

Cushing Burial Near 'His Children'

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing will be buried at St. Coletta School at Hanover close to the retarded children he held so dear.

The 75-year-old prelate's body was to be taken today from the archbishop's residence to the Cathedral of the Holy Cross to lie in state until the funeral Saturday.

The cardinal, a longtime friend of the late President John F. Kennedy and his father, the late Joseph P. Kennedy, died at his residence Monday afternoon, less than four weeks after he stepped down as head of the Boston archdiocese on Oct. 7.

News of his death came as a shock not only to the archdiocese's Catholics but to millions of others who remembered the white-haired, gravel-voiced prelate dancing a jig at his annual Thanksgiving parties for the poor, taking nuns to a Red Sox baseball game or wearing construction workers' hard hats at ground breakings for the many new schools and hospitals he built.

His successor, Archbishop Humberto S. Medeiros, said in announcing the cardinal's passing: "He was a truly great soul, a man of universal genius, a priest of selfless dedication, a bishop of towering stature."

The cardinal was a leader in the ecumenical movement—seeking cooperation and unity among Christian churches—and his influence ranged far beyond his archdiocese.

A strong opponent on racial injustice, he said in a pastoral letter: "When a Catholic fails to take a stand against race intolerance he is a slacker in the army of the Church militant."

His wide-ranging interests and varied circle of friends were reflected in tributes pouring into the archbishop's residence.

President Nixon issued a statement at the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., saying, "His name will always evoke for us a spirit of ecumenism, of human dignity, justice and brotherhood among men and nations."

Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, the former Jacqueline Kennedy, said she loved the cardinal and "will miss him terribly for the rest of my life."

"His life was built on love," the former first lady said, "to heal rather than to divide."

The American Jewish Committee, in a statement issued in New York by its president, Philip E. Hoffman, said it mourned "the passing of a great spiritual force in American life."

At the Vatican a spokesman said the cardinal's death caused "profound sadness, profound pain." Pope Paul VI prayed for his soul.

Archbishop Luigi Raimondi, the apostolic delegate to Washington, will concelebrate the funeral Mass at the cathedral at 11 a.m. Saturday along with Archbishop Medeiros and the three auxiliary bishops of Boston.

While the cardinal's body lies in state at the cathedral, public Masses will be celebrated Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at noon and at 7 p.m.

Burial will be in a crypt in the Portiuncula Chapel at St. Coletta School. In his more vigorous years, Cardinal Cushing was a frequent visitor of the retarded children there and often romped with them when time permitted.

Cardinal Cushing, son of a nation's second largest archdiocese, numbering 1.8 million, retired in 1968. He was elevated to cardinal by Pope John XXIII in 1958.

In 1961 he read the prayer at the inauguration of President Kennedy and less than three years later celebrated the solemn funeral Mass for the assassinated president at St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington. The cardinal's health had been failing for years, forcing him to give up dreams of becoming a missionary in South America when he retired.

He marked his 75th birthday Aug. 24.

The death announcement said he was "suffering from the complication of the long-standing malignancy with which he had been afflicted for years."

The future prelate attended Boston College, conducted by the Jesuit order, and prepared for the priesthood at St. John's Seminary.

After ordination in May 1921 he served briefly as a curate in two parishes. Then the late William Cardinal O'Connell, sensing Cushing's ability as a fund raiser—a talent he later raised to an art as an archbishop—appointed him to the diocesan office of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

He became auxiliary bishop of Boston in 1939 and five years later was named archbishop—then the world's youngest—at age 49.

U.S. Copter Crash Kills Four

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. military spokesmen said today four Americans were killed Monday when their helicopter crashed in the Mekong Delta. Another American was killed in a Communist ambush 35 miles from Saigon.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 46 Communist troops and capturing 14 in a series of small battles in the Mekong Delta. Another American was killed in a Communist ambush 35 miles from Saigon.

A Cambodian military spokesman said three government soldiers were killed and seven wounded in the clash at Tang, southeast of Saigon.

The ambush, involving the 1025th Infantry division, took place Monday in Long Khanh Province. The Americans called in artillery fire and helicopter gunships but the Communists got away without leaving casualties behind.

In addition to the American killed, two GIs were wounded. American Division troops killed four guerrillas in Quang

A New Economic Era Blossoming for Chile

SANTIAGO (UPI)—The inauguration of Dr. Salvador Allende as president today launches Chile into a new economic era. Allende, a Communist-backed Marxist and self-described "implacable foe of Yankee imperialism," has major nationalization plans.

A tight military cordon ringed the congressional building where the swearing-in was being held. Martial law still was in effect as a result of the Oct. 22 assassination of army commander Gen. Rene Schneider by rightwing extremists trying to block Allende from taking office.

A plainclothes detachment watched over each foreign delegation here for the inauguration, including the American group headed by Charles Meyer, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

Meyer said he brought a verbal message for Allende from President Nixon. Nixon did not send the normal congratulatory cable to Allende, a move that has been interpreted both here and in Washington as a deliberate snub.

Allende, who becomes the first Marxist chief of state in the Western Hemisphere, has targeted much of the $900 million worth of U.S. investments in Chile for expropriation.

Allende, 62, received 36 per cent of the popular vote in the elections, beating rightwing independent Jorge Alessandri and leftwing Christian Democrat Radomiro Tomic. Congress, acting as an electoral college, later chose Allende as president since he had the highest number of votes.

Although critics claim he does not have an overwhelming mandate to carry out his economic reforms, Allende points out that Tomic's program was almost as radical as his own. Between them they had nearly 65 per cent of the popular vote.

Israel Claims Britain Damaged Prospects

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Israel accused Britain Monday of damaging Middle East peace efforts with its proposal Israel withdraw to boundaries held before the 1967 war.

An Israeli spokesman said the British proposal would restore the situation that led to the 1967 war and was unacceptable to Israel. Britain came forward with specific proposals for settling the Arab-Israeli borders at the U.N. General Assembly debate on the Middle East.

The debate ends today with Mexico due to speak. General Assembly President Edvard Harabro said a decision then would be made on whether to delay voting on proposed Middle East resolutions for a day or two to allow completion of a compromise resolution.

The British stand has chilled Anglo-Israeli relations on the eve of a visit to London by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir.

The Israelis seemed upset the British proposals were made before the visit. A spokesman said "arrangements had been made some time ago for these matters to be discussed at the highest level between the two governments in the course of this week."
